

Case Study: Health and Safety Consultancy Support

Through LARP Safety Ltd, I provide tailored health and safety consultancy to businesses seeking to improve their legal compliance, streamline processes, and build a stronger safety culture. My work spans a wide range of sectors — including construction, manufacturing, education, and logistics — and typically involves a combination of risk assessment support, SSIP accreditation (e.g., CHAS, Safe Contractor), and guidance on ISO 45001-aligned management systems.

Clients often come to me looking to make sense of their legal duties or improve existing arrangements. I work closely with them to understand their operations and deliver practical, proportionate solutions — whether that's writing a new safe system of work, carrying out site audits, or mentoring internal staff on best practice.

Using technology such as Teams and Zoom, I maintain regular communication with clients across the UK and overseas, providing remote consultancy and ongoing support. My consultancy work is not about ticking boxes — it's about equipping clients with the knowledge, systems, and confidence they need to manage risk effectively and independently.
