2012 has been a fantastic year for the Taunton based consultancy, which provides health, safety and environmental support to clients throughout the South West and Nationally. The company has been active on a number of Major Infrastructure projects including London's Crossrail Project.

Crossrail is the biggest engineering project in Europe. When it opens in 2018, Crossrail will connect 37 stations, including Heathrow airport and Maidenhead in the west with Canary Wharf, Abbey Wood and Shenfield in the east.

The business is providing corporate support to the Dragados Sisk Joint Venture (DSJV) C305 Eastern Running Tunnels the largest tunnelling contract on on Crossrail.

Recognition of the Projects H&S achievements has been celebrated by Crossrail in 2012 by the presentation of a number of awards for establishing a project occupational health programme, which is making a real difference to the health and wellbeing of the workforce. Steve Cole Managing Director of Somerset Safety says "we have embedded the occupational health service within the construction process and hope to leave a lasting legacy for future Infrastructure and tunnelling projects of this size."
